RUNNING GEAR
WHEEL END

The wheel end is critical to vehicle uptime, safety and operational efficiency. TWL offers a comprehensive range of wheel-end components designed to simplify maintenance, improve service life and keep vehicles moving.

Common Causes of Wheel-End Failure Include:

- Incorrect installation, wheel nut torque or seal fitting errors
- Incorrect bearing adjustment, excess endplay, preload, heat
- Lubrication loss, leaking seals or contamination by dirt and water
- Excessive stress from overloading or road impacts
- Wear, damage or heat leading to vibration and seal failure

Supporting Smarter Maintenance

Regular inspection helps maximise component life and identify routine maintenance requirements before they impact vehicle availability.

Key Inspection Points

- ☑ Bearing adjustment
- ☑ Wheel nut torque
- ☑ Seal condition
- ☑ Stud and hub condition
- ☑ Lubrication level

Shock Absorbers, Bushings, Straps & Mounting Hardware

Shock Absorbers, Bushings, Straps & Mounting Hardware for:

HAS, HT230, HT250US, INTRAAX, PRIMAAX

Know Your Shocks

Shock absorbers absorb energy to prevent suspension oscillation act as rebound stops.

If your shocks show a film of oil or are coated in oily dust as shown on the left, that's quite normal and unless the mounting bolts are loose or bushes worn, the shocks should be okay.

If however, you can see lines or streaks of oil running down the shock absorber (as on the right), the shock seals may have failed - time to replace!

Check Shocks Fully Extended - Caution Shocks Get Hot

Congratulating Neville Bros for 100 Years on the Road

From originally carting metal, then general freight and livestock to supporting some of today's major roading projects, Neville Bros has been a trusted part of the Silverdale community since 1926. Reaching 100 years in business is a proud milestone for a family company that has successfully navigated economic downturns, fuel shortages, industry changes, and the challenges of COVID-19.

Founded by brothers Frank and Bert Neville, the business began on the family property in old Silverdale, where two houses and a handful of trucks formed the foundation of what would become one of the region's longest-standing transport companies. Before modern machinery, workers loaded metal by hand onto trucks from a scow at Arkles Bay, providing essential material for the development of local roads.

Frank's eldest son, Kelvin, started helping out after school and on weekends, beginning what would become a lifelong career in the family business. After sharing ownership with his brothers for many years, Kelvin assumed full ownership in late 2012. His brothers, Peter and Stewart, remain part of the team, together spanning more than 60 years of service to Neville Bros.

As the business evolved, its focus shifted towards metal supplies and Hiab crane work. Today, a fleet of 28 trucks and 19 trailers supports roading projects, farm access construction, lifting operations, and deliveries throughout the region. The company's metal yard also supplies a wide range of products to local customers.

Neville Bros remains firmly connected to Silverdale, Dairy Flat, and the wider Rodney district. Supporting the operation behind the scenes are full-time mechanics Mike and Chris, who keep the fleet in top condition through scheduled servicing every 5,000 kilometres, routine maintenance, and comprehensive pit inspections. Their efforts are complemented by a loyal team of long-serving employees who share the company's commitment to reliability and service.

A strong partnership with TWL Silverdale helps keep the wheels turning. The branch provides regular site visits, parts supply, and delivery services, while sales representative Peter is always willing to personally deliver urgent parts when needed.

For Kelvin, one of the most rewarding aspects of the business is working alongside family and friends, providing opportunities for local school leavers to enter the transport industry, and supporting community organisations and charities. Many former employees have gone on to successful careers within the transport sector, a source of great pride for the company.

With centennial celebrations planned for Labour Weekend, October 2026, there will be no shortage of stories to share and memories to revisit. Looking to the future, Kelvin hopes the third generation of the Neville family will continue the legacy built over the past century. As he says: "We believe in good, honest, solid hard work."

1989 - 3rd Generation brothers Ian and Allan Neville with stock trucks #22 & #3.

2018 - 3 Generations - Emma, Stacey, Mitch, Kelvin, Kiri, Cherry and Missy.
